

Lionel Nguyen Van Thé

Partition properties of separable metric spaces

The Urysohn space is a remarkable metric space constructed by Paul Urysohn in the twenties in order to prove that there exists a separable metric space into which any other separable metric space embeds. It turns out that quite a number of separable metric spaces can be built using the same ideas. The purpose of this talk will be to present various partition properties related to those variations.